

HUGH G. ROSS IS CLAIMED BY DEATH

Well Known Valley Cattleman and Merchant Dies in El Paso.

Hugh George Ross, a Fort Hancock cattleman and an El Paso business man, died early this morning at Hotel Dieu. Mr. Ross was well known in El Paso, associated in a cattle and merchandise brokerage business with his partner, W. F. Robinson. The firm was known as H. G. Ross & Co.

Preceded by a brief illness, death was caused by heart trouble. Mr. Ross came to El Paso a few days ago on his periodical business visit. He became suddenly ill Saturday, being taken to the hospital the following day.

A bachelor, Mr. Ross is survived by a brother, R. C. Ross, of Lordsburg, N. M., who arrived in El Paso this morning, and two sisters, living in California.

No funeral arrangements have been made.

Mr. Ross was born in Scotland 55 years ago. For 30 years he has lived in Texas. Among other properties he owned a ranch near Fort Hancock.

Sketch of Career.
Mr. Ross was the son of Donald Ross, a member of the firm of Ross, Mitchell & Co., the largest wholesale dry goods firm in Canada, where the El Pasoan was born. He left Canada in 1878, and went to Iowa, where he was engaged in business with the Coulson line of steamboats, then plying on the Missouri river from Fort Benton to St. Louis.

From Iowa he removed to El Paso in the early '80s, and opened a general mercantile store at Fort Hancock under the name of H. G. Ross & Co. He also engaged in the cattle business in this section and was one of the organizers of the El Paso Brick company, with W. F. Robinson and Col. Rogers, of Alton, Ill.

"He was one of nature's noblemen," W. R. Martin said this morning. "He came here before I did, but I was in one of the finest characters I have seen of the finest characters I have ever known."

Germany Making Heligoland Naval Base

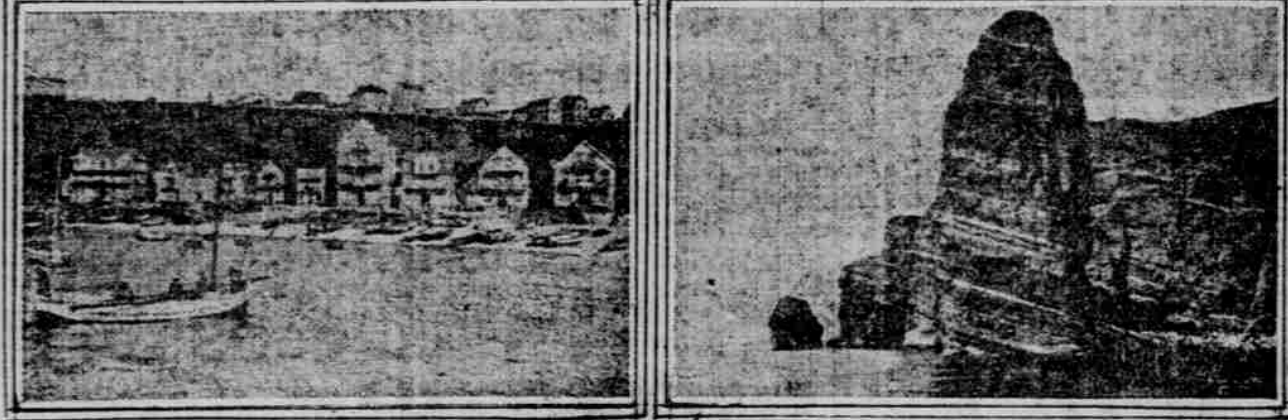

GERMANY'S IMPORTANT NORTH SEA NAVAL BASE.

HEAVY WINDS STAY A MINUTE TO HELIGOLAND.

ATTRACTIVE RESORT IN SUMMER.

VILLAS BUILT BY GERMANS.

ISLAND CONSISTS OF LAYERS OF CLAY.

Heligoland, a small island in the North Sea, formerly belonging to Denmark, was taken by the British from the Danes in 1807 and was ceded to Germany in 1890 in return for concessions made to Britain in East Africa. The resident population of the island is something above 2000, though in the bathing season Heligoland is visited by upward of 12,000 summer visitors, attracted by the admirable facilities which it affords.

Germany has spent an enormous amount of money on the island. The first step was to protect the land itself from the sea, which had made very serious inroads; thus the island is heavily armored, chiefly with cement, to keep the place together. Then followed the fortifications, which have so changed the character of the island and the harbor, which will provide a base for the Kaiser's torpedo boat submarine craft, that Heligoland is destined to play a small part in any war in which the German navy may be engaged in the North Sea, and for such a small place it has had an exceedingly interesting history.

In recent years Germany has devoted much attention to the island, and it is being developed as an advanced torpedo base. Nominally it will be the center of the German coast defense naval organization, with warlike arms stretching out to every port of importance along the North Sea Teuton shore. Actually the island will be the point of concentration for the mosquito flotilla of destroyers, submarines and mines, which Germany has or is preparing to station at Emden, Wilhelmshaven, Bremerhaven, Cuxhaven, Brunsbuttel and Spitt.

An enormous sum has also been spent upon a harbor and for torpedo craft, while magazines have been set up for the storage of fuel, ammunition, torpedoes and submarine mines.

BOOM WILL FOLLOW HOTEL'S LOCATION

Many Buildings Under Consideration—Great "White Way" Planned.

West San Antonio is due for a small sized boom when fall comes, if the plans of property owners on the newly opened business street mature. O. H. Baer, who owns property on this street, is planning to erect a concrete building on the southwest corner of Santa Fe and West San Antonio streets. This may be six stories in height and will be a modern office and store building. Z. T. White, who owns property on the same street is also planning to build in the fall and L. E. Booker, who owns a strip of ground facing the new street will also build. Should the proposed new hotel be built on the site which has been selected for it on the corner of West San Antonio and Santa Fe streets, there springs up in the district west of El Paso street. The property owners are already talking of stringing cluster lights across the street for the full length, as has been done in San Antonio and other East Texas cities.

MRS. TAYLOR BUILDS ANOTHER RESIDENCE

Mrs. Frances B. Taylor, who is El Paso's only woman city builder, is building another residence in Highland Park. The house will have six rooms and will be of modern brick construction to cost $2000.

NO NEW DEVELOPMENTS IN ELEPHANT BUTTE PROJECT

Judge C. M. Mechem, of the United States court at Socorro, N. M., was in El Paso Tuesday on his way home from Las Cruces, where he has been holding a special term of court. Judge Mechem is the judge who had the appointment of the Socorro commission to appraise the land to be condemned for the Elephant Butte project, and the appeal hearing will be heard before him in June should the government decide to appeal the case. Judge Mechem said that there would be no developments in the case as far as his court was concerned until it was appealed and tried by jury in his court next June.

EXHIBIT TO BE MADE AT SAN DIEGO FAIR

El Paso Boosters Will Collect Display for 1915 Exposition.

A committee to prepare an El Paso exhibit for the San Diego exposition, which is being planned to celebrate the opening of the Panama canal in 1915, has been organized in El Paso with Felix Martinez as chairman. The purpose of the committee as explained by Mr. Martinez is to cooperate with San Diego in holding the exposition and to arrange for an exhibit of the resources of El Paso and the El Paso valley at this exposition.

San Diego, according to Mr. Martinez, is the logical port on the Pacific for El Paso and when connected by rail with this city, as is proposed in the Yuma to San Diego line of the Spreckels interests and the Southwestern system, a cooperation of interests would be of mutual benefit to both cities.

The exposition committee as organized by T. W. Loughry, who has been here in the interest of the movement, is composed of Felix Martinez, A. Courchesne, H. D. Slater, B. G. Thomas, J. S. Reynolds, C. N. Bassett and J. F. Williams. Nothing definite has yet been decided by the committee, as it is awaiting official action from the directors of the proposed Panama exposition at San Diego and instructions from them as to the work to be done here.

MANY OLD TIME STRUCTURES RAZED

Progress of Growing City Causes Tourists to Make Many Comments.

El Paso's business district looks like a young cyclone has been torn down to the second story and is rapidly being reduced to a heap of bricks and scrap lumber. The old American National bank building, one of the finest buildings in the city in the old days, has lost all semblance to its former self and resembles a safe after a bunch of crackers have finished with it. The Eastern Grill building has been torn down, and the Gem will follow soon. The Caples building on San Antonio will soon follow and the Fawcett block on the corner of El Paso and San Antonio is to go the way of all buildings which were unfortunate enough to be built in a growing city. Tourists who stop over in El Paso inquire the reason for so much destruction in the business district and ask if there has been a fire or a cyclone, as they refuse to believe that El Paso is outgrowing its old clothes as rapidly as it is.

Because of the inability of the Angelus cafe to secure experienced waiters to serve luncheons, the remainder of the business men's luncheons will be served at the Angelus instead of in the basement of the chamber of commerce. PEOPLE ARE NOT TAKING KINDLY TO THE CENSUS TAKERS

An effort is being made to close up the volunteer census enumeration this week. A number of blocks have not yet been taken but these are being assigned and will be ready for compilation before the close of the week. A conflict is resulting from the taking of the volunteer and the government census at the same time. The people do not understand the double system of checking the population and because they have been called upon once, they refuse sometimes to give the government enumerators the desired information.
